ON AUGUST 21, 2017 A TOTAL SOLAR ECLIPSE OCCURRED DIRECTLY OVERHEAD IN JACKSON HOLE. OUR COMMUNITY DONNED ECLIPSE GLASSES, SHIVERED AS THE MOON’S DISK COVERED THE SUN AND WITNESSED TOTALITY IN OUR BACK YARDS.
THE 21st Anniversary of Old Bill’s Fun Run eclipsed all previous years! (All summer, we felt compelled to allude to the Total Solar Eclipse, which occurred on August 21st, so our need to pun got the better of us.) Over 20,000 gifts were made through Old Bill’s in 2017. The total raised was a record-breaking $12,168,165, for a lifetime total of more than $146 million. It may be called Old Bill’s, but it has all the youthful vitality of a 21-year-old.

In addition to Old Bill’s, nonprofits rely on the Community Foundation for competitive grants, professional development workshops, one-on-one technical support and salary surveys. With capacity building grants, we provide significant targeted funding to help organizations make a greater impact. We offer agency funds so nonprofits can leverage our investment management infrastructure and increase their financial sustainability.

We help donors achieve their philanthropic goals by providing a variety of charitable giving options and prudently investing their funds. Planned gifts assure donors that they will still be solving problems for generations to come.

The Foundation also hosts Community Conversations around broad local challenges to help identify root causes and agree upon steps toward solutions. These Conversations bring nonprofits, government entities and businesses together, connect nonprofits with new resources and explore strategies to address critical issues.

The Community Foundation helps students pursue their dreams. In 2017, fifty students received $164,850 in scholarships, including the Luke Stalker Global Fellowship award. This year, we introduced the First in Family Scholarship for high school students in Teton County who do not have a family history of higher education. Through Old Bill’s Fun Run and the Foundation’s Youth Philanthropy program, the next generation is learning how to strategically award grants and experience the intrinsic value of giving back.

Every day, the Foundation is working to make giving smarter, nonprofits more effective and the community stronger. We are overwhelmed with gratitude for the investment, vision and commitment of nonprofits and donors of all ages. You enrich our lives and eclipse our hearts with joy.

ABOUT US

Our community knows us best for Old Bill’s Fun Run, a collaborative fundraiser that helps local nonprofits raise operating funds. In addition, throughout the year we are busy managing funds and providing grants and resources to nonprofits. The Community Foundation of Jackson Hole oversees more than $60 million in assets and granted over $21 million in 2017.

We support donors, nonprofits and our community with care and expertise to enrich Teton County. Below is a comprehensive list of the funds, programs, resources and services we provide. As illustrated, much of our work connects these three constituencies. Look for corresponding page numbers after listings that reference a deeper dive included in this report.

Partnering with the Community Foundation allows me to focus on what I enjoy about giving money away – researching organizations doing important work and ensuring they have the resources to make a difference.

Donor Story

Chris and Ross Hartley

The Hartleys retired to Jackson in 1999. The Kansas couple had spent time in the mountain west for years, but when Ross thought of relocating, he came home and said, “How about moving to Jackson Hole with me?” Chris spat out her toothpaste and said, “I’m in.”

The couple learned the power of generosity early in their lives. “Growing up in a small town, it’s part of life to think of ways to help. Giving back is part of the credo. In a world full of challenges, you can get overwhelmed and wonder how you can make a difference, but on a human scale, if you impact one person, you have done something important.”

The Hartleys have been Old Bill’s Co-Challengers since 2011. “When we donate, it has to make sense. Old Bill’s Fun Run makes sense, because it brings the whole town together, and everyone can leverage Co-Challenger donations. We support organizations that are run well and that have a good chance of success. The Community Foundation has demonstrated success in the past and the potential to continue that into the future.”

Chris is also inspired by other people’s generosity, so being Co-Challengers, accepting that challenge together with so many other donors, is ideal for her.

“I go to TED conferences every year, and one of their sayings is ‘Everything you do, you share.’ On the local level, it reminds me of the Community Foundation. The Foundation is always sharing its expertise with other nonprofits. It passes on the largesse, and I love that!”
THROUGH COMPETITIVE GRANTS, the Foundation supports projects that make a significant local impact. Our Grants Committee—comprised of volunteers with varied backgrounds, areas of interest and expertise—reviews applications twice a year. Funding for Competitive Grants comes from Old Bill’s Fun Run Co-Challengers, private donors and endowed funds at the Foundation.

The best thing we have contributed to is the Community Foundation of Jackson Hole’s operating fund. There are so many charities with different interests and goals… I’d rather give an undesignated gift to the Foundation and let the staff decide where the money is most needed.

- Brad Mead
Former Board Member
Donor Story
Growing up on a farm in rural Idaho, Rush Jenkins learned early on about the importance of contributing to the community. “At gatherings, we were the family that stayed to clean-up, that made sure all the tables and chairs were put away.” Rush and his partner, Klaus Baer, share this value; giving back is a priority for them.

Klaus grew up in the mountains in Georgia and living in big cities left him feeling a void in terms of connecting with the community. “The scale was so big; it was hard to actually see the effect of your giving. In Jackson, you experience the connections firsthand, and they are authentic. You come to believe in organizations wholeheartedly, because you can see how they impact the community.”

The couple met in 2000 when Rush was in London and Klaus was in New York. They moved to Jackson in 2011 and opened WRJ Interior Design on King Street in 2012. They visited a number of different mountain towns before settling on Jackson, “The sensibility here, the lack of pretention, is perfect for us.”

Old Bill’s Fun Run and the Community Foundation align with Rush and Klaus’ interests and goals to be involved in the community in meaningful ways. Being Co-Challengers is “copacetic” for them. “We love the math and structure of Old Bill’s. Because nonprofits have to fundraise on their own to receive matching grants, you see very clearly what the community supports through this event. Philanthropy has so many faces, and the Community Foundation addresses them all. As Co-Challengers, we are supporting great organizations across the board.”

Recently, Rush and Klaus have begun to consciously focus on gratitude. Their Newfoundland puppies, Dutchie and Wolfie, help with this appreciation, as they continually stop on their walks and encourage their parents to take a breath and admire the natural beauty surrounding them in Jackson. “We have so much to be grateful for every day.”
KEY FINANCIAL INDICATORS

BEHIND THE SCENES

THE Foundation employs eight full-time staff and an event coordinator for Old Bill’s Fun Run. We are a small and mighty team, processing the same transactional volume as much larger foundations with precision and expertise. We rely on our board and committees for their knowledge, time and wisdom. Working with us, board and committee members, donors and funholders invest in small town relationships that are making a large-scale impact.

IN MEMORIAM

SHELLEY SIMONTON

Described as a “human sparkler,” Shelley Simonton was the embodiment of light and energy. Her charisma, intelligence and wit drew friends and admirers throughout Teton County and Wyoming. Her life’s work was to elevate people and inspire the best in them.

A proud, fifth-generation Wyomingite raised in Cody, Shelley settled in Jackson in 1992. She embraced every opportunity to wear her cowboy boots and hat—as a member of a winning pig wrestling team at the Teton County Fair, cheering on barrel racers at the Cody Stampede, and shouting “Go Pokes” at football games in Laramie.

Shelley was a talented skier, fisherwoman, horse-packer and mountain biker. She dispensed invaluable advice to friends learning to mountain bike: always look ahead and don’t let distractions sidetrack you. Shelley applied this mantra to her professional life, as well. Following several leadership roles in Teton County, she served as Executive Director of the Wyoming Association of Municipalities from 2014-2017. She served on the Community Foundation’s Board of Directors from 2007-2012 and was selected to lead the Jackson Hole Chamber of Commerce before her health declined in the spring of 2017.

Shelley was a staunch advocate for women in Wyoming. As chairwoman of the Wyoming Women’s Foundation, she spearheaded the first Wyoming Women’s Antelope Hunt. She was also a founder of Womentum, helping Jackson women discover and actualize their leadership potential.

Shelley’s side-splitting sense of humor defined her. Her storytelling garnered the best belly laughs, as did her emceeing of Old Bill’s Fun Run.

When Shelley learned there were no more treatments to pursue in her battle against cancer, she used her remaining time to pilgrimage to the West Coast with husband Matt Bowers to watch whales migrate. Despite her deteriorating health, she relished the trip and found solace in the enormity of nature the whales represented.

We will remember Shelley for her wit, generous spirit and unrivaled commitment to community.
